

The Garden State Law Podcast: Practicing Law in the Virtual World

July 11, 2023

Over the last three years, attorneys and judges were forced to practice law in the virtual world. Given the onset of the COVID pandemic, along with advancements in technology, the legal industry has officially embraced a digital practice. While some things are here to stay, certain aspects of practicing virtually may not linger forever. In the latest episode of The Garden State Law Podcast, join Saiber litigator Marc Wolin as he discusses his experience of a remote trial and practicing law in the digital age.